

Notice of Availability of the Draft Recovery Plan for Colorado Pikeminnow (Ptychocheilus lucius)

We, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service), announce the availability of our draft revised recovery plan for Colorado pikeminnow (Ptychocheilus lucius), a fish species listed as endangered under the Endangered Species Act (Act). Colorado pikeminnow once inhabited warmwater reaches throughout the Colorado River Basin and is now limited to three populations in the Upper Colorado River Basin in the Green, upper Colorado, and San Juan river subbasins of Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming.

Section 4(f) of the Act requires us to provide public notice and an opportunity for the public to review and comment during recovery plan development. Additionally, we seek comments from Federal, Tribal, State, and local governments. We are particularly interested in additional information regarding the current threats to the species, ongoing beneficial management efforts, and the costs associated with implementing the recommended recovery actions. We will consider all information presented during the public comment period. Comments may or may not result in changes to the recovery plan; comments regarding recovery plan implementation will be forwarded as appropriate to Federal or other entities so that they can be taken into account during implementation of recovery actions.

Dates: To ensure consideration, we must receive written comments on or before January 28, 2023. However, we will accept information about any species at any time.
